

we becoming more enslaved by divisions and fixations created by deception?

The Nutritional Crisis example:

Why are there no public protests about nutrients being taken out of our foods?

Why is there an internationally organized push to ban the cheap nutrients we need to replace those removed from, or becoming deficient in, natural foods?

Why is understanding and use of natural nutrients discouraged by modern doctor training and why also are these safer nutrients being put beyond common reach by laws and political pressure from international business?

Why are so many pharmaceuticals found, after a few years, to have serious health side effects though declared tested and safe?

Why are best medical services already out of general community reach because of cost and labor shortage in a community saturated with labor saving devices?

Why are all the trends, mentioned in these leaflets, worldwide if there is no well organized long-term worldwide campaign?

Many people, without research effort or use of reasoning based on knowledge, reject as impossible any idea either of dictatorial World Government or, if so, that behavior of nations can be changed by promoting false philosophy. However, those reading reports on TheMindWeb with desire for truth, now know that social redirection for selfish gains is not only possible but, given time, relatively simple.

So long as the program of gradualism is kept to, the knowledge now available need only be used in moderation; social engineers need take no risks. Carl Sagan (astronomer) observed to the effect that once we accept manipulation very few ever escape it.

Apart from previously mentioned means of mind control consider this: All effective teaching relies to some extent on a level of hypnosis. It means getting the maximum attention of the student directed to the teacher (or TV). It means as much of the attention of the pupil as possible be fixed on the educator.

But as a famous inventor is reported to have said of some difficulty: This problem is too difficult for us professionals, we will have to wait for some gifted amateur to solve it.

The fact that so many technical and social problems have been solved by the self-trained is not because amateurs are more intelligent but because they, as individuals, learn by their passion for understanding the truth of their subject.

They are not satisfied to just 'parrot' or regurgitate words without understanding as do those pressured to use memory for passing exams, nor by 'mesmerized' watching of the antics of TV presenters.

The self-taught learn to satisfy their passion by their dedication to true understanding of their chosen subject. This is an example of the difference between slave-mindedness and freedom!

Our desire for freedom is based on our desire to know our true selves. The importance of knowing our true selves is seen reflected in the passion with which we defend whatever we think is our true selves.

Those who manipulate us into worship of a false self do so in order to either use us for their own benefit or to rob us of our lives or possessions.

That so many find this too inhuman or too incredible for belief just serves to show the level of depravity to which the manipulators have descended. Manipulators are not superior to the common herd as is clearly shown by the depths to which they will descend in service to their pride and power.

A book could be filled with information and questions whose logical answer will insist:

Those who rule the world want us dead!

Globalists need this power over us because they want to own our world and don't want resources wasted on slave minded people who are obstacles to their grab for power. Countless thousands have already died on this road to Armageddon. Look & see.

Leaflets in this series and literature on TheMindWeb.com confirm and enlarge on what is presented here. This is a result of a lifetime of research backed by many quotes from the insight, logic and research of others. The total evidence is overwhelming.

Scriptures reveal that we can know all that it is possible to know about how we were created; about our nature and about how we should live, all by viewing the creation through "the eye of reason" (logic). Our reasoning ability is our key to all knowledge so it is also logical that those who want to rob us will want first to rob us of our logical ability. So why sacrifice yourself when your logical ability offers you freedom?

As you will see from other leaflets the easiest way they have of robbing the commonality of intellectual ability is to have us sit our children in front of TV sets.

Your life is there for you to save if you think your life worth the effort of thinking for yourself. If you doubt this read the modern understanding of creation in "Of Truth" 2005; this will be on-line at www.themindweb.com in July 2005.

.Regards, A.G.

NOTE:

To see the actual quote from Carl Sagan enter his name into one of the "Site Search" facilities that appear throughout www.themindweb.com

There is one at the end of the "Home Page". This facility, of course, is also useful for finding other items among literature on the mind web.

www.TheMindWeb.com

Discussion Leaflet 10

Slavery by Deception

Part 2

The Consequences

What are the effects of government by public deception? Look about you! We are gaining knowledge and we are gaining ability to use knowledge yet, when apparently concerned people are asked why they do not explain or advocate true democracy we get zombie-like responses.

Why do they not appear interested in making the easy transition to self-government? Why do they not appear to care that while under criminal government we are all in grave danger? Why do they just complain about what is happening and make silly excuses?

Yes, silly excuses despite that simple reasoning would show that, until the people are in control of their government, then we are unable to know the truth of anything we are told; trust in either education or law; or enforce any constitutional right.

One of the most popular excuses is that if we elect independents they will soon form parties. This, of course, is a mind manipulated response.

A/ Democracy is NOT government by independents. An Electorate chosen candidate can no more be an independent than can one party chosen be an independent! In a democracy the electorate itself is the party and approves policy, and the representative keeps the electorate informed of the situation and of practical options.

B/ That a group of responsible people coming together to make a decision must come to a majority opinion does not, quite obviously, make of these a party. They are not controlled by a party organization and they have no obligation to agree on any following decision.

C/ It is surely not intelligent to prefer government by a criminal organization over government by members who are both chosen and elected in our common service.

Silly opinions given for rejection of community controlled government can only be the result of unwillingness, or inability, to perform simple acts of reasoning. This often revolves around belittlement of any progressive idea so as to avoid the niggardly thought of acting on it or taking responsibility. This or other excuse is a consequence of slavery to mind manipulation.

So where are we now?

We are in process of achieving greater humanity but is our world becoming more peaceful and honest or more filled with violence and lies? Is the love that leads to self-sacrifice growing or is the love of self that leads to injustice, greed and hate growing?

Are we becoming increasingly united by our ability to work out simple problems or are

>>>